The automation of human and system tasks delivers confidence, especially when deadlines are looming, and you need to create and manage the output of your disclosure documents. This includes:

- Reuse of common content across documents for improved accuracy and consistency
- Production of new regulatory disclosures linked to existing documents
- Easy-to-use interface relying on familiar editing applications Microsoft Word® and Excel®
- Robust capabilities to match any style and help you manage composition costs
- Flexible automation that adapts and expands to your organisation's needs
- Utilisation of our self-service, cloud-based SaaS solution
- Streamlining and tracking of document delivery via an integrated workflow tool

Multiple-contributor workflow tool

Unlike a “check the box” application, Workflow integrates with ArcPro and ArcReporting® to provide top-down visibility while it streamlines your production and review cycles. It allows you to request, receive, store and process comments from multiple internal and external reviewers throughout the production cycle. Automated email notifications help users at every level of an approval process stay on top of tasks and deadlines. This results in measurable savings and the chance to optimise production cycles.

An unmatched content sharing experience

ArcPro automates a linear process and allows you to synthesise shared content into compliance, regulatory and marketing communications. Here's how it works:

Formatting control at your fingertips

Formatting and styling a document to meet regulatory and brand standards is a complex step in the production of any disclosure. ArcPro enables you to create and review formatted, typeset documents immediately after you publish – no more submitting documents with markups and waiting to get proofs back. Every time you publish, you create documents that meet regulatory agencies' changing requirements while retaining control and managing the editing costs. You'll experience faster document creation and lower costs because you'll more easily manage the back-and-forth process of proofs and edits.

Clean, intuitive user interface

ArcPro bases its navigation and task flow on a document-centric approach. Users quickly embrace it because it features Microsoft Word and Excel as its editing tools for shared language and data. In addition, you can access a personalised, role-specific home page with task lists and privilege-based access to content files. Ongoing user feedback continues to improve the overall user experience and reduce the learning curve for new users.

Accurate style formatting and publishing

ArcPro provides automated end-to-end publishing capabilities for producing print- or web-ready PDFs and distributing Microsoft Word proofs. It supports strike-through and financial blacklining. The application also features automated iXBRL tagging and output and is therefore XBRL-ready as the regulatory landscape in the UK and Europe evolves. Tags are retained year over year for ease of review and approval. Behind the product is a world-class publishing engine we've tailored to support the complete range of table styles, page formats and document design.

A flexible approach to creating and managing your charts

ArcPro offers an automated charting feature that is easy to use and can match a wide variety of styles and structures. Upload the chart data, select the desired template, and receive back JPEG and EPS files of the chart immediately. Any subsequent edits to the data will be reflected in your updated chart.
